STRONG POLICY WITH RESPECT TO WAGING WAR ON THE ALLIES

Peace Within Boundaries Of Germany
Is Aim Of New Chancellor In Effort
To Hold Elements Together

NEWSPAPERS DO NOT COMMENT

Berlin, July 17.—Chancellor Dr. Michaelis' Program is to be "a strong policy without and unity within." This was the statement outlined regarding the new Chancellor's fundamental theory today. Berlin is kindly curious and impatient to learn the new Chancellor's formal plans concerning his aims and policy. It was announced today that the Reichstag may reassemble for a meeting at which the new Premier will make his maiden speech possibly before Thursday. Until the new Chancellor formally states his policy the Berlin press will continue cautious about giving him support or join the opposition it was indicated today. Meanwhile the junkers' press is still condemning former Chancellor Bethman-Hollweg with unprecedented vigor and hatred.

Clearwater Gave Fine Exhibition Of Pool

Large Crowd of Fans Congregate At Edwards & Davis Parlors

Clearwater the great pool shooter was the star attraction in Clearfield last evening and gave exhibition of straight pool and fancy shooting that was greatly enjoyed by followers of the cue stick. The poolroom of Edwards & Davis was crowded with lovers of the game when the first number of the evening, a 125 ball game of call shot, was played. Sluggo Rowles of Clearfield opposing the champion. Rowles played a fine game, continually taking chances and going after hard shots and combinations while his wily opponent contented himself with playing on the defensive at all times, taking no chances and taking advantage of every opportunity to see his opponent up. The game ended with a score of 88 to 125 in favor of Clearwater and would probably have been much closer had Rowles used the same tactics that Clearwater gave an exhibition of fancy and trick shooting.

WAR PROFESSOR WILL SPEAK TO U.S. THRU U.P.

Spencer Wilkinson Holding Chair
of Professor of War at Oxford
Writes Interesting Articles

READ THEM IN THE PROGRESS

By Lowell Mellett

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Oxford Eng. June 30.—By Mail.—Today in his study at Oxford university the only Professor of War boasted by any university in the world gave to the United Press for its readers in America, a series of talks on war.

The professor is Spencer Wilkinson, listed as professor of military history known to students of war everywhere. No other school has the course of study which he directs. Among the books for which he is best known is "The Brain of an Army," which is credited with causing the British army to adopt the general staff as part of its organization the American army later following suit.

In the days when Lord Roberts was the head of the army, the Oxford schoolmaster was one of his valued advisors. "Lord Roberts was always glad to listen to anything Spencer Wilkinson had to say," according to Field Marshal Nicholson, who was a member of "Little Bobs" staff.

The request by the United Press for an interview resulted from seeing the reception given Prof. Wilkinson at the British front a short time ago, on the occasion of his first visit there since the war began. Had he worn the red stripes of the general staff and decorations by the dozen, his welcome could not have been warmer. His tall vigorous figure was to be seen passing portals forbidden to other guests; his gray-bearded head listening to things others were not told.

"Oh, the Professor," the officers smiled in explanation; "he knows! Some of the army heads learned war from him; some of them are still learning from him."

It occurred to me to go and do likewise. The professor was quite willing to talk and willing to reveal any of war's secrets—the sort of secrets everybody ought to know. In the stillness of Oxford, the special stillness that has followed giving up all but 200 of her 3,000 students of the war, he explained with great exactness some of his views on the business now engaging all the energy of the world. The Professor of war did not glorify war, any more than the great surgeon glorifies disease. He simply urged his belief that when a nation is compelled to fight it should fight as intelligently as possible.

He talked about Grant and Lincoln and about the relation of the bullet to the soldier's soul.

He told why it is more important for the commander to have character than to have genius.

He mentioned Napoleon, Prince Hohenzollern and the private in the ranks. All these things in the light of America's entry and the things America should do.

And he consented that the interview thus given should be made into a series of articles for American readers. The first of these, under his name, will appear tomorrow.

DON'T STONE THE DUCKS!

A pair of wild ducks have made their home in the river above the Market street bridge and are now busily engaged in raising a family of young ducklings. The people along the river front are getting a great deal of pleasure out of watching these wild fowl in their daily activities and ask of The Progress to notify the boys who have been stoning the ducks almost daily, that they propose to arrest any boy found at this business in the future. Warn your boy against stoning these ducks.

Falling Off Of Ships Plying Between
United States And Norway Is Result
Of Victories Of The British

ADMIRALTY ANNOUNCES THE COUP

London, July 17.—Capture of four German merchant ships in the North sea yesterday was announced by the Admiralty today. This is the second instance recently reported of German merchantmen being captured in the North sea. Presumably these ships were en route to Scandinavia to get supplies for Germany.

The recent falling off of Scandinavian shipping is due to the heavy loss of vessels and the desire of shipowners to save their ships and they therefore keep them in port.

CHAUTAUQUA TICKETS

Fifty people are making a thorough canvass of the town today selling tickets for the Clearfield Chautauqua. We wish to correct a misstatement that tickets can be purchased after the allotment in the hands of the local committee are disposed of, for the price of $2.50 a season ticket. This is not true. After the tickets of our allotment are sold, no season tickets will be available, and those not buying from the committee will be obliged to pay for every performance at current prices of $3.35 for the afternoon performances, and $5.00, and $7.50 for the evening entertainments. We believe from all reports received from the ticket sellers this morning, our allotment will be pretty well sold out by night, it not completely disposed of. We are pursuing a new policy this year, disposing of the tickets in a general canvass early, and hope to have the ticket selling completed today, or the following day. If you are expecting to get a ticket later, you will be disappointed. Buy your ticket tonight. If for some reason you have not seen about buying a ticket, call Miss Augusta Kratzer, chairman of Ticket Committee, and engage yours at once.

Johnstown, July 17.—District Attorney Weimer steadily refuses to make known the motive advanced by the commonwealth in the prosecution of George Tompkins, Jr., for the Humphries triple murder. "We believe we have positive evidence to establish the motive for this crime but we must decline to give publicity in advance of the trial of Tompkins. We have no desire to apprise Tompkins of the case being developed by the commonwealth against him. We have some surprises in store for the accused and we believe the evidence already secured will be strong enough to prove the prisoner guilty of the crime charge."

TENER WILL HELP HOOVER

New York, July 17.—Governor Tener, president of the National League, will assist Herbert Hoover in the government food conservation work. Tener will not resign as president of the base ball league, he stated today. The Governor is past grand ruler of the Elks and otherwise prominent in fraternal organizations and it is largely for that reason that he has been asked to aid Hoover in interesting such bodies of men in the food conservation work. "I am glad to give part of my time to this work," Tener said, "and probably spend from one to two intervals in Washington."

EXPRESS AGENT PUT BACK ON RIVER LINE

N. Y. Central Has Made Many
Changes In Effort To Operate
Mixed Train Successfully

TRIAL PERIOD EXPIRES SOON

The "mixed train" on the river line continues its uncertain journey these days, following the inauguration of its service by fiat of Superintendent McCormick.

This River line service is progressing however. When it was first inflicted on us one combination passenger and baggage car was made to house all who traveled thereby, be the 21 seats filled or no. While now, this combination car has been added to by another full sized passenger coach also of the vintage of '62, and that must be marked down as some concession to popular clamor.

In addition thereto another freight train and crew has been added to the river line for the purpose of "doing the mine or heavy work," which relieves the crew in charge of the "mixed train" of a great deal of work and allows them to get in some time. The way freight generally consisting of two box cars, still occupies the place of honor at the head of the line on the "mixed train," the "mixed train" crew kindly consenting at the super's command to take this much work off the freight crew's hands so they might get in some time also.

When the change was made the express service was discarded, the express messenger, fired off the train and the office down the line pulled up by the ropes. There is money in carrying express however and as the train crew operating this "mixed train" is paid at least $33.15 per day, on Saturday last the express messenger was put back on and the returns from the express business again diverted to the coffers of the company.

The only rift in the lute as the shakedown notes, is occasioned by the extra $3.00 per day paid out, this added expense being necessary because an extra brakeman had to be provided on the "mixed train" to assist sist the regular crew in handling the way freight and in order that they might get in some time also.

Not being a railroad man, but having been "railroaded" on that "mixed train" of detested memory of several years back, we are at a loss to know why the wherefore or reason for all those changes, which get so far away from giving any thing near adequate passenger or mail service and yet costs the railroad company $3.00 per day more than the passenger service enjoyed (?) previous to this most unsatisfactory change.

Meanwhile this mixed train averages about twenty passengers per day out of Clearfield regardless of whether the head end is loaded with gasoline, acid, dynamite or what not and this leads us to remark that the passengers traveling out of Clearfield have lots of nerve alright, alright.

Cattle Rustlers Are Rustling Cattle Again

Mountain Thieves Again Active And
Authorities On Their Trail

Cattle thieves are again operating on the mountains north of town and several people are mourning the loss of critters which were allowed to graze in the woods between Clearfield, Penfield and the Meigs Run county.

During last season six or seven animals were stolen from the herd pastured by Wallace & Smith on the headwaters of Laurel, Trout and Meigs Run.

About two weeks ago a cow belonging to John Nelson, the state forester, who lives at the state house on the top of the mountain was stolen from the woods near Nelson's house and no trace of the thieves has thus far been secured.

Several years ago a gang of cattle rustlers operated in this same region and it is said are using the same "underground railway" down Laurel run.

The county authorities should get busy and run these cattle stealers into the penitentiary where they belong.

BURG LIFE SECUREDMetropolitan Company Takes Over
Business on Reinsurance Plan

Beneficiaries given the policy holders of the Pittsburgh Life and Trust Company, who have been undergoing more or less anxiety since the company went under last spring, by the announcement yesterday of J. Denny Oswald, state insurance commissioner and receiver of the company that all claims "that have occurred since May 7, the date when the receivership became effective, will be paid in full and that any that occur within five years will be paid in full, with the exception that there will be deducted interest at the rate of 4 per cent on a third of the reserve of such policies. The death claims to be paid in full immediately amount to $450,000.

At the end of the five years, it is expected, Mr. O'Neil said yesterday, that as nearly as anything in this world can be guaranteed, there will have been recovered sufficient from the old directors and the assets of the company that every other policy holder will be able to collect a claim in full.

MINERS ARE WARNED
THEY MUST GET COALJohn T. Dempsey, District Head, Tells
Men They Must Help Win War

Wilkes-Barre, July 16.—John T. Dempsey, president of district No. 1, opened the biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America here today with praise for the patriotic spirit of the miners. He declared the men who at home while the war is on must do the implements of warfare for those who do the fighting.

He said it is a duty the miner owes his country to provide adequate fuel to make munitions with which to win the fight.

"If coal is scarce," he said, "prices are high, it becomes the duty of all engaged in production to use every effort to keep up the maximum, so that not only will our brave soldiers and sailors be supplied with everything they need to carry the war to a successful end, but that our citizens who stay at home, and especially the poor people of the east, who depend on the anthracite mines for fuel, will have an adequate supply throughout the winter at a reasonable price.

"This is the time for true co-operation and harmony in the ranks of organized labor, and its representatives will of necessity be obliged to be ever on the alert lest the standards we have raised through years of effort be destroyed.

"Organized labor will do its share, and all it asks is fair treatment, fair wages and a voice in the adjustment of questions necessary to meet extraordinary conditions."

Among the matters that will come before the convention are: Action on the project of keeping the coal output up to a maximum during the war; consideration of the military draft in so far as it affects men needed in the coal industry; plans for membership campaigns that will recruit every mine worker into the union; election contests for several of the offices and reports of auditors and district officers.

John P. White, international president, is expected to attend the convention during the week.

SCANDAL GROWS AS DEN-
MAN FORBIDS ANY
SHIP COMMANDEERING

Washington, July 16.—The ship building controversy arose again today, and as a result Major General Goethals, general manager of the Emergency Fleet corporation, did not take steps to commandeer shipping now on the stocks and speed up its construction, or to let contracts for two big government-owned plants which he hoped to use for the immediate building of fabricated steel ships.

That the difficulties between General Goethals and Mr. Denham, approaching a national scandal because of the importance involved in prompt merchant shipbuilding was emphasized by Mr. Denham, wood ship expert. As chairman of the Shipping Board, he asserted his responsibility for the expenditure of $750,000,000 and served notice upon General Goethals that his plans for standard steel ships, fabricating plants and commandeer would not go forward until the plans were fully consummated and the cost of the plants ascertained and the entire program approved by the board. His statement of defiance is: "We requested of General Goethals certain information concerning the program for the expenditure of $750,000,000 of public money for which the President's order has made the Emergency Fleet corporation and Shipping Board responsible.

Negro Attacks 18-Year
Old Elbel Girl

he yelled. The negro glanced up, saw Mr. Lowry approaching and ran, with the father at his heels. He succeeded in eluding him, however.

The girl was carried to her home and Dr. John E. Grube and Dr. Guy M. Musser, of Punxsutawney, were summoned. They found the girl partially delirious and unable to give a coherent account of what had happened. The boy, however, told of the attack in detail and gave a minute description of his sister's assailant. The girl suffered an eye cut behind the right ear, where she had been struck with a stone in the negro's hand. The flesh above her right eye is discolored and her lips are badly swollen and cut.

The State Police detail was immediately notified and Sergeant Sherman, with Charles Eberhart driving, made a record run to the scene of this assault. The boy gave the trooper an accurate description of the negro and Sherman immediately went to a point nearby, where seven negroes employed on the Pennsylvania railroad as a section gang, were encamped. Although he had been warned that the negroes were all "bad men" and armed he walked into the camp alone, lined the seven men up at the point of a revolver and looked them over carefully. Three answering in some respects the description given him by the boy and he promptly marched those three to the Winslow home. There both the boy and the father picked out the man who gives his name as Holbert as the man who had made the assault. The boy was most positive in his identification. "He has shaved off his mustache and changed his clothes," he said, "but that's the fellow."

The officer had considerable trouble in preventing the girl's father from attacking the prisoners. He finally got him to leave him in the automobile and drove Punxsutawney where Holbert is now in jail.

Holbert vigorously denied the attack. He said he had been in Punxsutawney during the afternoon. Had arrived at the camp shortly before 5 o'clock and knew nothing of the attack until the state police put in his appearance.

The residents of Elbel and vicinity were highly incensed and had the negro accomplished his nefarious intent it is probable that there would have been a lynching.

Holbert was given a hearing last evening before Squire Rowan at Punxsutawney and the assailant was positively identified by the young brother of the girl. The two colored men taken in custody at the same time testified that Holbert came to the camp a short time before his arrest, all excited and perspiring freely. He asked to have his hair cut and he himself shaved off his mustache. He also removed the band from his hat, this band later being discovered in the stove.

The man was held under $1,000 bail and in default will be taken to the Brookville jail. Owing to the many threats heard in Punxsutawney the prisoner was guarded by the state police all night.

Cherokee a Canadian Lieutenant in France

LIEUT. LONG LANCE.

Lieutenant Long Lance, a full blooded Cherokee Indian, graduate of Carlisle University and until the great war a student at West Point, is a first lieutenant in Princess Pat's crack regiment. He has been stationed on the western battle front for over a year, and he took part in the historic engagement of April 9, on Vimy Ridge, and came through it, the only surviving officer of his rank in his battalion. Several days after, "on the quietest day we had in months," as he describes it, he was hit in the back of the head by a piece of shrapnel and thrown violently on his face, breaking his nose. He writes to a friend in America telling of the incident from a base hospital in France. The photo shows Lieutenant Long Lance in tribal costume, and was made in this country a short time before he enlisted with the Canadian forces.

"This is my special machine which no one flies but myself and she certainly gets along. She is doing wonderful work and there are plenty of little round patches on her wings to show where Hun bullets have landed uncomfortably close to the pilot."

Why It Has Restored My Health So Perfectly That It Seems a Miracle

"Yes sir, this Tanlac beats anything I have ever before used," declared P. P. Shively, a well known salesman who lives at 1007 Third St., Juniata, Pa.

"I had no idea it was so good. Why, it has restored my health so perfectly that it seems more like a miracle than anything else.

"I had suffered from stomach trouble. My indigestion was all out of sorts. I couldn't eat. Whenever I did try to take anything solid, I would suffer from gas on my stomach and a sickening feeling that lasted for several hours afterward.

"My nerves were also out of gear, and I couldn't sleep sound and restful at night. I would wake up in the morning feeling heavy and languid, and I could scarcely muster up enough energy to get up and dress myself. I seldom ever could eat breakfast.

"After using two bottles of Tanlac my stomach seems in perfect shape. I can eat good and never sleep better in all my life. My weight has been increased three pounds by Tanlac. I simply can't get enough to eat now. Tanlac is now sold here by Wood-Ward & McPherson.

The girls spent a most delightful afternoon filling comfort kits for the soldiers.

A dainty lunch was served.

BASEBALL

Earl Hamilton heaver for the St. Louis Browns, has an average of .400 as a batter and a pitching average of .300.

After refusing to go to the Toledo team, Olaf Henriksen was given his unconditional release by President Frazee of the Red Sox.

Paulette who went to the St. Louis Cardinals from the St. Louis Browns, where he batted for only .130, is now hitting at a .300 clip.

Recent batting averages showed that every team in both the American and National leagues had at least one pastimer hitting for .300 or better.

The Phillies are not doing much in the base-stealing line. The team's hitting and pitching have been O. K. but the Morans have been poor pilferers.

Although Bobby Roth of Cleveland has had a bad foot for the past two years his pastiming has been on a par with that of the best of the big leaguers.

The veteran Clyde Milan is the only Senator batting in the .300 set. Basestealing used to be Milan's strong suit, but stick work has his attention at present.

It is considered doubtful if the change in managers will help the Pirates to any great extent. In fact, there doesn't seem to be much help for the Buccaneers this season.

Business Manager Bancroft, of the Cincinnati Reds has picked third place for Matty's team. Right now the Reds look as though they would make good Benny's prediction.

Wally Schang of the Athletics hits the ball a terrific blow, but hits in hard luck. If the Mackmon's catch could hit 'em "where they ain't" he would be a wonder with the stick.

No Brooklyn or Pittsburgh player is found in the list of thirty-five National league pastimers banished by the umpires this season. On the other hand the Giants leading the league, have had eight men chased by the umpires. What's the answer.

Cobb, the leading hitter, run-getter and base-stealer, and Boland, who stands among the leading American league pitchers, are the only Detroit pastimers to distinguish themselves so far this season.

Honus Wagner has had more "special days" staged in his honor than any other player in the history of baseball. Nearly every National league club has staged a "Wagner Day" this season.

The Giants certainly are proving a hard outfit for National league teams to beat. Present indications point to the McGrawites romping home a winner with a mile of daylight between them and the runner-up.

The White Sox, picked by many to win the pennant still have a troublesome time ahead of them. There is a possibility that the dope may be upset by either the Red Sox, the Indians, Tigers or Yankees.

Losing three games in a row to Cleveland aww about the saddest blow that has befallen the Red Sox this season. The world's champions were all set to regain first place when the Indians tommyhawked 'em.

BRITISH TAKE 4 GERMAN MERCHANTMEN NEW CHANCELLOR'S POLICY ANNOUNCED

STRONG POLICY WITH RESPECT TO WAGING WAR ON THE ALLIES

Peace Within Boundaries Of Germany
Is Aim Of New Chancellor In Effort
To Hold Elements Together

NEWSPAPERS DO NOT COMMENT

Berlin, July 17.—Chancellor Dr. Michaelis' Program is to be "a strong policy without and unity within." This was the statement outlined regarding the new Chancellor's fundamental theory today. Berlin is kindly curious and impatient to learn the new Chancellor's formal plans concerning his aims and policy. It was announced today that the Reichstag may reassemble for a meeting at which the new Premier will make his maiden speech possibly before Thursday. Until the new Chancellor formally states his policy the Berlin press will continue cautious about giving him support or join the opposition it was indicated today. Meanwhile the junkers' press is still condemning former Chancellor Bethman-Hollweg with unprecedented vigor and hatred.

New Imperial Chancellor of Germany

DR. GEORG MICHAELIS

Dr. Georg Michaelis, the new chancellor of the German empire, who has by choice of Kaiser Wilhelm succeeded von Bethmann-Hollweg, is sixty years old. When he became Prussian food commissioner he was successful, an that led directly to his choice for the highest place in the empire. He is believed to be a conservative.

Clearwater Gave Fine Exhibition Of Pool

Large Crowd of Fans Congregate At Edwards & Davis Parlors

Clearwater the great pool shooter was the star attraction in Clearfield last evening and gave exhibition of straight pool and fancy shooting that was greatly enjoyed by followers of the cue stick. The poolroom of Edwards & Davis was crowded with lovers of the game when the first number of the evening, a 125 ball game of call shot, was played. Sluggo Rowles of Clearfield opposing the champion. Rowles played a fine game, continually taking chances and going after hard shots and combinations while his wily opponent contented himself with playing on the defensive at all times, taking no chances and taking advantage of every opportunity to see his opponent up. The game ended with a score of 88 to 125 in favor of Clearwater and would probably have been much closer had Rowles used the same tactics that Clearwater gave an exhibition of fancy and trick shooting.

WAR PROFESSOR WILL SPEAK TO U.S. THRU U.P.

Spencer Wilkinson Holding Chair
of Professor of War at Oxford
Writes Interesting Articles

READ THEM IN THE PROGRESS

By Lowell Mellett

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Oxford Eng. June 30.—By Mail.—Today in his study at Oxford university the only Professor of War boasted by any university in the world gave to the United Press for its readers in America, a series of talks on war.

The professor is Spencer Wilkinson, listed as professor of military history known to students of war everywhere. No other school has the course of study which he directs. Among the books for which he is best known is "The Brain of an Army," which is credited with causing the British army to adopt the general staff as part of its organization the American army later following suit.

In the days when Lord Roberts was the head of the army, the Oxford schoolmaster was one of his valued advisors. "Lord Roberts was always glad to listen to anything Spencer Wilkinson had to say," according to Field Marshal Nicholson, who was a member of "Little Bobs" staff.

The request by the United Press for an interview resulted from seeing the reception given Prof. Wilkinson at the British front a short time ago, on the occasion of his first visit there since the war began. Had he worn the red stripes of the general staff and decorations by the dozen, his welcome could not have been warmer. His tall vigorous figure was to be seen passing portals forbidden to other guests; his gray-bearded head listening to things others were not told.

"Oh, the Professor," the officers smiled in explanation; "he knows! Some of the army heads learned war from him; some of them are still learning from him."

It occurred to me to go and do likewise. The professor was quite willing to talk and willing to reveal any of war's secrets—the sort of secrets everybody ought to know. In the stillness of Oxford, the special stillness that has followed giving up all but 200 of her 3,000 students of the war, he explained with great exactness some of his views on the business now engaging all the energy of the world. The Professor of war did not glorify war, any more than the great surgeon glorifies disease. He simply urged his belief that when a nation is compelled to fight it should fight as intelligently as possible.

He talked about Grant and Lincoln and about the relation of the bullet to the soldier's soul.

He told why it is more important for the commander to have character than to have genius.

He mentioned Napoleon, Prince Hohenzollern and the private in the ranks. All these things in the light of America's entry and the things America should do.

And he consented that the interview thus given should be made into a series of articles for American readers. The first of these, under his name, will appear tomorrow.

DON'T STONE THE DUCKS!

A pair of wild ducks have made their home in the river above the Market street bridge and are now busily engaged in raising a family of young ducklings. The people along the river front are getting a great deal of pleasure out of watching these wild fowl in their daily activities and ask of The Progress to notify the boys who have been stoning the ducks almost daily, that they propose to arrest any boy found at this business in the future. Warn your boy against stoning these ducks.

NEGRO ATTACKS 17 YEAR OLD ELBEL GIRL

Brother Screams and Frightens
Burly Brute But Girl is Badly
Injured By Heavy Blows

SUSPECT HELD FOR CRIME

Charged with attempting to assault 17-year-old Florence Lowry, of Elbel station, 12 miles east of Punxsutawney, a negro who gives his name as Walter Holbert is in the Punxsutawney jail. The girl, who was brutally beaten with a stone and the negro's fists, is in a serious condition, due to nervous shock at her home.

The assault occurred Sunday evening at 8 o'clock near the girl's home. The negro was captured about four hours later by Sergeant Sherman of Punxsutawney detail of Troop D. State Police. Holbert denies the crime, but the father and brother of the girl are positive in their identification.

The girl has been employed as a student operator at Rossiter Junction by the Pennsylvania Railroad company. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Lowry, of near Elbel. Sunday evening about 6 o'clock the girl and her 12-year-old brother went to the railroad station nearby with a cousin, who was leaving for Punxsutawney.

On their way home they were followed by a negro. The boys says that they suspected nothing until the man ran up behind his sister and, after shouting "I'm going to kill you," struck her back of the ear with a large stone. The girl fell and the negro dropped to his knees beside her. He struck her twice with his fist, once on the right cheek and again on the mouth. Both the girl and her brother screamed as the negro made at attack and their father, working in his garden nearby, heard them. He started to run in the direction of the scream and was seen by the boy. "Here comes father," (Continued On Page Three)

SHIPS TAKEN CAPTIVE BY ENGLISH LIKELY ARE FOOD SHIPS

Falling Off Of Ships Plying Between
United States And Norway Is Result

ADMIRALTY ANNOUNCES THE COUP

London, July 17.—Capture of four German merchant ships in the North sea yesterday was announced by the Admiralty today. This is the second instance recently reported of German merchantmen being captured in the North sea. Presumably these ships were en route to Scandinavia to get supplies for Germany.

The recent falling off of Scandinavian shipping is due to the heavy loss of vessels and the desire of shipowners to save their ships and they therefore keep them in port.

CHAUTAUQUA TICKETS

Fifty people are making a thorough canvass of the town today selling tickets for the Clearfield Chautauqua. We wish to correct a misstatement that tickets can be purchased after the allotment in the hands of the local committee are disposed of, for the price of $2.50 a season ticket. This is not true. After the tickets of our allotment are sold, no season tickets will be available, and those not buying from the committee will be obliged to pay for every performance at current prices of $3.35 for the afternoon performances, and $5.00, and $7.50 for the evening entertainments. We believe from all reports received from the ticket sellers this morning, our allotment will be pretty well sold out by night, it not completely disposed of. We are pursuing a new policy this year, disposing of the tickets in a general canvass early, and hope to have the ticket selling completed today, or the following day. If you are expecting to get a ticket later, you will be disappointed. Buy your ticket tonight. If for some reason you have not seen about buying a ticket, call Miss Augusta Kratzer, chairman of Ticket Committee, and engage yours at once.

Johnstown, July 17.—District Attorney Weimer steadily refuses to make known the motive advanced by the commonwealth in the prosecution of George Tompkins, Jr., for the Humphries triple murder. "We believe we have positive evidence to establish the motive for this crime but we must decline to give publicity in advance of the trial of Tompkins. We have no desire to apprise Tompkins of the case being developed by the commonwealth against him. We have some surprises in store for the accused and we believe the evidence already secured will be strong enough to prove the prisoner guilty of the crime charge."

TENER WILL HELP HOOVER

Tener will not resign as president of the base ball league, he stated today. The Governor is past grand ruler of the Elks and otherwise prominent in fraternal organizations and it is largely for that reason that he has been asked to aid Hoover in interesting such bodies of men in the food conservation work. "I am glad to give part of my time to this work," Tener said, "and probably spend from one to two intervals in Washington."

EXPRESS AGENT PUT BACK ON RIVER LINE

N. Y. Central Has Made Many
Changes In Effort To Operate
Mixed Train successfully

TRIAL PERIOD EXPIRES SOON

The "mixed train" on the river line continues its uncertain journey these days, following the inauguration of its service by fiat of Superintendent McCormick.

This River line service is progressing however. When it was first inflicted on us one combination passenger and baggage car was made to house all who traveled thereby, be the 21 seats filled or no. While now, this combination car has been added to by another full sized passenger coach also of the vintage of '62, and that must be marked down as some concession to popular clamor.

In addition thereto another freight train and crew has been added to the river line for the purpose of "doing the mine or heavy work," which relieves the crew in charge of the "mixed train" of a great deal of work and allows them to get in some time. The way freight generally consisting of two box cars, still occupies the place of honor at the head of the line on the "mixed train," the "mixed train" crew kindly consenting at the super's command to take this much work off the freight crew's hands so they might get in some time also.

When the change was made the express service was discarded, the express messenger, fired off the train and the office down the line pulled up by the rocks. There is money in carrying express however and as the train crew operating this "mixed train" is paid at least $33.15 per day, on Saturday last the express messenger was put back on and the returns from the express business again diverted to the coffers of the company.

The only rift in the lute as the shakedown notes, is occasioned by the extra $3.00 per day paid out, this added expense being necessary because an extra brakeman had to be provided on the "mixed train" to assist sist the regular crew in handling the way freight and in order that they might get in some time also.

Not being a railroad man, but having been "railroaded" on that "mixed train" of detested memory of several years back, we are at a loss to know why the wherefore or reason for all those changes, which get so far away from giving any thing near adequate passenger or mail service and yet costs the railroad company $3.00 per day more than the passenger service enjoyed (?) previous to this most unsatisfactory change.

Meanwhile this mixed train averages about twenty passengers per day out of Clearfield regardless of whether the head end is loaded with gasoline, acid, dynamite or what not and this leads us to remark that the passengers traveling out of Clearfield have lots of nerve alright, alright.

Cattle Rustlers Are Rustling Cattle Again

Mountain Thieves Again Active And
Authorities On Their Trail

Cattle thieves are again operating on the mountains north of town and several people are mourning the loss of critters which were allowed to graze in the woods between Clearfield, Penfield and the Meigs Run county.

During last season six or seven animals were stolen from the herd pastured by Wallace & Smith on the headwaters of Laurel, Trout and Meigs Run.

About two weeks ago a cow belonging to John Nelson, the state forester, who lives at the state house on the top of the mountain was stolen from the woods near Nelson's house and no trace of the thieves has thus far been secured.

Several years ago a gang of cattle rustlers operated in this same region and it is said are using the same "underground railway" down Laurel run.

The county authorities should get busy and run these cattle stealers into the penitentiary where they belong.

Looks as if Beals Becker, the old Giant-Philly gardener was dropped from the fast set too early in life. For two years now Beals has been killing American association pitching while pastiming with Kansas City.

TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 17, 1917.

If men are to be judged in the light of their subscriptions to the Red Cross Society then the Hon. Vance McCormick with his millions ought to be a cracker jack candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket. We do not know what Vance gave and care less but if he gave in proportion to his ability to give we predict that the fellow who slams Joe Philips for giving his "mite" will shout for Vance and his wealth to the last ditch.

As though the war was not enough to give us thrills and shocks there has been a series of crimes committed within a radius of fifty miles of Clearfield which are of a most revolting nature. The negro affair at Woodland started things and immediately on the heels of that the affair at Carrolltown transpired and a whole family was ruthlessly removed from this earth and within a twinkling of an eye sent to their Maker in another world. On the afternoon of the same day a shocking crime was attempted at the little village of Elbell a short distance from McGees, but fortunately across the Jefferson County line.

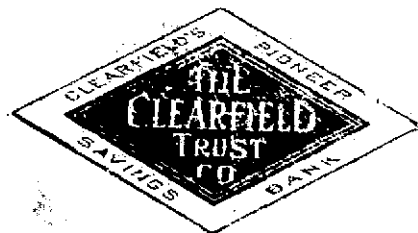

Some of the ladies of the Red Cross Society are getting anxious to get to work on materials to be furnished by the society and cannot understand why the materials are not immediately forthcoming. The magnitude of the preparations for war has taxed every industry in the nation and there are so many supplies to be bought for the army, navy and Red Cross work that to jump into the market and buy them all at once would create a condition that would be most disastrous to the welfare of the nation. Our national officers are endeavoring to work this problem out along lines that will not disturb the natural equilibrium and must be given a little time to perform their duties. Very few Red Cross supplies will be needed before next summer. The new army of a half million men will not see active service before next year. They will be in the service but will be thoroughly trained and seasoned by from three to six months' training before being sent to the battle lines. Our great army of women will be able to keep pace with the requirements even though they do not get started this year. In the meantime we must hold our patience and in good time the national Red Cross officials will make economic purchases of materials and use that one hundred millions to the best advantage. A good soldier waits for his orders and when he receives them he immediately executes them. Our women soldiers must do likewise.

The King's Son Sank on His Knees.

When the children clapped to have daddy tell them the bell story he took them both upon his lap and began. "Daddy has already told you how all of a bright band of young boys and girls started out to find a magic bell that tined beautifully. But, alas, the little ones grew tired and sat down by the wayside. The big ones stopped to buy candy at a tent, others tore their clothes and had to go home, and some stopped at a little cottage where a toy bell tinkled in the sunshine pleasantly.

"There was only one boy, a fine, thoughtful lad, a king's son, who made up his mind to hunt till he found the real bell. There was also a poor lad with torn clothes who was eagerly hunting. But he dashed off into the woods where the brambles were thickest. So there was danger that he would harm himself before he ever found the bell.

"I will find the bell if I have to go to the world's end," cried the king's son. "As he set off alone into the deep woods some monkeys scampered into treetops and sat there grinning.

"Shall we pelt him?" they asked, showing their teeth. "Shall we thrash him? He's a king's son!" They said it just as if it were a bad thing to be a king's son.

"But the lad went farther and farther into the woods till he reached a spot where the most beautiful flowers grew. There were white starlike lilies with golden centers, pale blue tulips gleamed in the sun, and all the apple trees were laden with fruit that looked like great soap bubbles. It was like fairyland among the great spreading oaks and beeches. Charming mosses and creepers grew in the fissures of the trees where the bark was broken away.

"Soon the king's son came to great glades where quiet lakes lay. 'White swans swim about, dipping their wings.

"The king's son stopped and listened very carefully. For sometimes he imagined that the tones from the wonderful bell came from this lake region. But when he put his ear to the ground or held it against the wind he felt sure that the bell was not there, but farther in the woods.

"Soon the sun began to go down, and the clouds turned a fiery red. A great stillness came over the woods, and the king's son sank on his knees just as if he were going to say his prayers," daddy finished.

"Wasn't he brave not to be afraid in the big woods, daddy?" cried Jack.

TO GIVE EACH SOLDIER A BIBLE

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 17.—Every United States soldier going to the front will carry with him a Bible, which will be given him by the order of Gideons, or Christian traveling men's organization. The details of the plan for the Bible distribution are to be perfected at eighteenth national convention of the Gideons, which meets in this city tomorrow for a four day session. Despite the high cost of paper, which has almost price of Bibles, the Gideons purpose to add 1,000,000 to the 370,000 Bibles they have already distributed in hotels through America, and to do their best to see that there is a Bible in the haversack of every soldier going to war.

GARE DU NORD IS THE GATEWAY OF HAPPINESS

Great Railway Station at Paris Thru Which Hordes of Sammlers Will Pass To Help France

"TUCK" BAGS QUITE POPULAR

By W. S. Forrest

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Paris, June 25.—(By Mail)—Gare du Nord, is the great railroad station of Paris through which American troops will pass on their way to and from the front. General Pershing and his staff had their first glimpse of Paris through its big front door.

Otherwise it is the happiest and saddest place in the French metropolis. The happiness is made in America. The sadness is, of course, the war.

If the American women could see the results of the handy bags they sew and send to France and the money they collect in America to cheer the soldiers at the Gare du Nord they would feel justly compensated for every cent and every hour of work.

In a great hall in the basement of the station French poilus gather to be entertained by vaudeville artists and to have luncheon furnished by Madame Coucou, a benevolent French woman who assures America that American soldiers will be just as welcome. The men are leaving for the front—passing back to the firing line.

When the luncheon is finished the work of tens of thousands of American women is handed to the soldiers by kindly faced American women in Paris doing the work of the American Fund for French Wounded. These include Mrs. Mary Beech, Needham, wife of the late famous American writer and Miss Brent of Chicago. Hundreds of "tuck bags" sewed and provisioned in every state of America are handed to the eager poilus.

Big strong men, who know that back fighting death in the firing line almost weep and bless the American women. The bags contain what-nots of every description—needles, thread, soap, towels, tooth brushes and paste and hundreds of things that cheer men cursed with almost three years of war.

On the night the French poilus received his first message direct from General Pershing and was introduced to the American officer, the United Press saw what kindly American women were doing to cheer the soldiers of France. Captain N. E. Margetts, Aide-de-Camp to General Pershing and Major Churchill, of the General staff, represented the American army. Four hundred and fifty poilus, cheered the American officers and American women until their throats were tired.

"Vive l'Amérique," "Vive le Général Pershing," "Vive la France," came from all the 450 throats.

"Vive Everybody," shouted one old poilu after the others had finished.

Captain Margetts told the soldiers in slow careful French that General Pershing, like all America, admired them for the valorous fight they had made for nearly three long years.

"We are with you until the finish," Captain Margetts said. General Pershing asks you to continue the struggle until the American comrades arrive and fight by your side."

Then came the American "tuck bags." Eager uniformed arms reached for the treasures.

Seemama Elie, a big handsome blond Zouave, who has been through hell of fire dozens of times, wrote his name on a slip of paper and asked the United Press to thank Miss Ruth Fryling, Concord, North Carolina, for the bag she sent "to some unknown soldier." He cannot use the two boxes of face powder but he'll send them to a girl he knows, while he'll enjoy the other things the bag contained. Elie wrote his "front" address as follows: "Seemama Elie, 4e Zouaves, Compagnie Mitrailleur, 4e, Battalion, Sector Postal 131."

Katheryn H. Shay, 814 South University street, Ann Arbor, Mich., pitched her tuck bag across the ocean into the arms of Sergeant Schachroun, another young French Zouave who thankfully penned his address, "Geme Spahis Lomarche, 1er Section de Mitrailleur, Sector Postal 68."

There was a young soldier of many campaigns, when he pulled the name of Miss Helen Eaglesfield, 1852 North Pennsylvania street, Indianapolis, from his tuck bag. He didn't mind letting Miss Eaglesfield know his address.

Georges Guinard, 36em d'infanterie, Compagnie Hors Rang, Sector Postal 93, received the bag sent by Miss Mattie Norton, of the American Fund for French Wounded, Louisville, Ky.

A bag sent by Miss Emily Warner.

A PRAYER

"Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces one pound, and 100 cents one dollar."

"Help me to live so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and untroubled by the face of those to whom I have brought pain."

"Grant, I beseech Thee, that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in doing thereof that I may not stick the gaff where it does not belong."

"Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and rustle of unholy skirts."

"Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own."

"Guide me so that each night when I look across the dinner table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I shall have nothing to conceal."

"Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and lose myself in their play."

"And then, when come the smell of flowers, and the tread of soft steps, and the crushing of the hearer's wheels in the gravel out in front of my place, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple."

AN ADAMLESS EDEN

The little town of Olanta located on the sandy banks of Little Clearfield creek, is a regular Adamless Eden, according to report. It is said that no less than ten widows and four old maids have their abodes in this benighted village. Just as soon as the draft is ordered and Uncle Sam has secured all the men he desires at this time it is said the Olanta chamber of commerce will advertise for likely looking men to supply the present deficit in their community, and it may then be a case of fighting either in France or at Olanta.

Milk Vegetable Soups

To each 2 cupsful of milk use 1 tablespoonful of flour, 1 tablespoonful of butter, 2-3 of a cupful of thoroughly cooked vegetable, finely chopped, mashed or put through a sieve, and salt to taste. Thicken the milk with the flour as for milk gravy and add the other ingredients.

The fame of the "tuck bag" has spread on the French battle front. Over 60,000 have already been delivered at the Gare du Nord and thousands more are to come for American soldiers as well as French, say the American workers in Paris.

EXAM FOR ARMY LIEUTENANTS

This may be the last examination of the kind until the war is over. SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. July 11, 1917.

Dear Sister:

I received your letter and was very glad to hear from you, as you are the first one to answer my letters. I didn't get your last letter, or any of the others. I got my razor from home but didn't even get a post card, so you know how glad I was when I heard from you. I am feeling fine and am having a fine time.

We have something going on every night. I joined the Y. M. C. A. and they furnish writing paper for nothing. There is nearly always some people from the city that sing and furnish other music. Some times they have regular vaudeville acts, so we have some pretty good times. Sometimes the boys box and wrestle, and believe me there are some good ones here.

I haven't been able to get into the city yet, as it is about seven miles from here.

I don't know how large the training grounds are here but I know it is a long hike across it. I was over to see the trenches yesterday and they look alright to me. They are imitation trenches, to give us some idea of what they are like in France. Some of them are covered and surrounded with barbed wire.

Well I guess that is about all for this time, but I will try and write more the next time.

Good night.

WILFRED.

Business on Reinsurance Plan

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. has been given the policy holders of the Pittsburgh Life and Trust Co. who have been undergoing more or less anxiety since the company went under last spring, by the announcement yesterday of J. Denny O'Neill, state insurance commissioner and receiver of the company that all claims "that have occurred since May 7, the date when the receivership became effective, will be paid in full and that any that occur within five years will be paid in full, with the exception that there will be deducted interest at the rate of 4 per cent on a third of the reserve of such policies. The death claims to be paid in full immediately amount to $450,000.

At the end of the five years, it is expected, Mr. O'Neill said yesterday, that as nearly as anything in this world can be guaranteed, there will have been recovered sufficient from the old directors and the assets of the company that every other policy holder will be able to collect a claim in full.

MINERS ARE WARNED
THEY MUST GET COALJohn T. Dempsey, District Head, Tells
Men They Must Help Win War

Wilkes-Barre, July 16.—John T. Dempsey, president of district No. 1, opened the biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America here today with praise for the patriotic spirit of the miners. He declared the men who at home while the war is on must do the implements of warfare for those who do the fighting.

He said it is a duty the miner owes his country to provide adequate fuel to make munitions with which to win the fight.

"If coal is scarce," he said, "prices are high, it becomes the duty of all engaged in production to use every effort to keep up the maximum, so that not only will our brave soldiers and sailors be supplied with everything they need to carry the war to a successful end, but that our citizens who stay at home, and especially the poor people of the east, who depend on the anthracite mines for fuel, will have an adequate supply throughout the winter at a reasonable price.

"This is the time for true co-operation and harmony in the ranks of organized labor, and its representatives will of necessity be obliged to be ever on the alert lest the standards we have raised through years of effort be destroyed.

"Organized labor will do its share, and all it asks is fair treatment, fair wages and a voice in the adjustment of questions necessary to meet extraordinary conditions."

Among the matters that will come before the convention are: Action on the project of keeping the coal output up to a maximum during the war; consideration of the military draft in so far as it affects men needed in the coal industry; plans for membership campaigns that will recruit every mine worker into the union; election contests for several of the offices and reports of auditors and district officers.

John P. White, international president, is expected to attend the convention during the week.

SCANDAL GROWS AS DEN-

SHIP COMMANDEERING

Washington, July 16.—The ship building controversy arose again today, and as a result Major General Goethals, general manager of the Emergency Fleet corporation, did not take steps to commandeer shipping now on the stocks and speed up its construction, or to let contracts for two big government-owned plants which he hoped to use for the immediate building of fabricated steel ships.

That the difficulties between General Goethals and Mr. Denham, approaching a national scandal because of the importance involved in prompt merchant shipbuilding was emphasized by Mr. Denham, wood ship expert. As chairman of the Shipping Board, he asserted his responsibility for the expenditure of $750,000,000 and served notice upon General Goethals that his plans for standard steel ships, fabricating plants and commandeer would not go forward until the plans were fully consummated and the cost of the plants ascertained and the entire program approved by the board. His statement of defiance is: "We requested of General Goethals certain information concerning the program for the expenditure of $750,000,000 of public money for which the President's order has made the Emergency Fleet corporation and Shipping Board responsible.

Negro Attacks 18-Year
Old Elbel Girl

he yelled. The negro glanced up, saw Mr. Lowry approaching and ran, with the father at his heels. He succeeded in eluding him, however.

The girl was carried to her home and Dr. John E. Grube and Dr. Guy M. Musser, of Punxsutawney, were summoned. They found the girl partially delirious and unable to give a coherent account of what had happened. The boy, however, told of the attack in detail and gave a minute description of his sister's assailant. The girl suffered a deep cut behind the right ear, where she had been struck with a stone in the negro's hand. The flesh above her right eye is discolored and her lips are badly swollen and cut.

The State Police detail was immediately notified and Sergeant Sherman, with Charles Eberhart driving, made a record run to the scene of this assault. The boy gave the trooper an accurate description of the negro and Sherman immediately went to a point nearby, where seven negroes employed on the Pennsylvania railroad as a section gang, were camped. Although he had been warned that the negroes were all "bad men" and armed he walked into the camp alone, lined the seven men up at the point of a revolver and looked them over carefully. Three answering in some respects the description given him by the boy and he promptly marched those three to the Winslow home. There both the boy and the father picked out the man who gives his name as Holbert as the man who had made the assault. The boy was most positive in his identification. "He has shaved off his mustache and changed his clothes," he said, "but that's the fellow."

The officer had considerable trouble in preventing the girl's father from attacking the prisoners. He finally got him to leave him in the automobile and drove Punxsutawney where Holbert is now in jail.

Holbert vigorously denied the attack. He said he had been in Punxsutawney during the afternoon. Had arrived at the camp shortly before 5 o'clock and knew nothing of the attack until the state police put in his appearance.

The residents of Elbel and vicinity were highly incensed and had the negro accomplished his nefarious intent it is probable that there would have been a lynching.

Holbert was given a hearing last evening before Squire Rowan at Punxsutawney and the assailant was positively identified by the young brother of the girl. The two colored men taken in custody at the same time testified that Holbert came to the camp a short time before his arrest, all excited and perspiring freely. He asked to have his hair cut and he himself shaved off his mustache. He also removed the band from his hat, this band later being discovered in the stove.

The man was held under $1,000 bail and in default will be taken to the Brookville jail. Owing to the many threats heard in Punxsutawney the prisoner was guarded by the state police all night.

Cherokee a Canadian Lieutenant in France

LIEUT. LONG LANCE.

Lieutenant Long Lance, a full blooded Cherokee Indian, graduate of Carlisle University and until the great war a student at West Point, is a first lieutenant in Princess Pat's crack regiment. He has been stationed on the western battle front for over a year, and he took part in the historic engagement of April 9, on Vimy Ridge, and came through it, the only surviving officer of his rank in his battalion. Several days after, "on the quietest day we had in months," as he describes it, he was hit in the back of the head by a piece of shrapnel and thrown violently on his face, breaking his nose. He writes to a friend in America telling of the incident from a base hospital in France. The photo shows Lieutenant Long Lance in tribal costume, and was made in this country a short time before he enlisted with the Canadian forces.

The lieutenant received his airplane training at Augusta, where he met Miss Fielder. Writing to a friend in Augusta, Lieutenant Chisam said:

"This is my special machine which no one flies but myself and she certainly gets along. She is doing wonderful work and there are plenty of little round patches on her wings to show where Hun bullets have landed uncomfortably close to the pilot."

Why It Has Restored My Health So Perfectly That It Seems a Miracle

"Yes sir, this Tanlac beats anything I have ever before used," declared P. P. Shively, a well known salesman who lives at 1007 Third St., Juniata, Pa.

"I had no idea it was so good. Why, it has restored my health so perfectly that it seems more like a miracle than anything else."

"I had suffered from stomach trouble. My indigestion was all out of sorts. I couldn't eat. Whenever I did try to take anything solid, I would suffer from gas on my stomach and a sickening feeling that lasted for several hours afterward."

"My nerves were also out of gear, and I couldn't sleep sound and restful at night. I would wake up in the morning feeling heavy and languid, and I could scarcely muster up enough energy to get up and dress myself. I seldom ever could eat breakfast."

"After using two bottles of Tanlac my stomach seems in perfect shape. I can eat good and never sleep better in all my life. My weight has been increased three pounds by Tanlac. I simply can't get enough to eat now. Tanlac is now sold here by Wood-Ward & McPherson."

ANNOUNCEMENT

Suspension of electric power for a time this afternoon prevented our setting a great deal of the news. We have, however, culled out the best and ask you to forbear with us in our difficulties.

BASEBALL

Earl Hamilton heaver for the St. Louis Browns, has an average of .400 as a batter and a pitching average of .300.

After refusing to go to the Toledo team, Olaf Henriksen was given his unconditional release by President Frazee of the Red Sox.

Paulette who went to the St. Louis Cardinals from the St. Louis Browns, where he batted for only .130, is now hitting at a .300 clip.

Recent batting averages showed that every team in both the American and National leagues had at least one pastimer hitting for .300 or better.

The Phillies are not doing much in the base-stealing line. The team's hitting and pitching have been O. K. but the Morans have been poor pilferers.

Although Bobby Roth of Cleveland has had a bad foot for the past two years his pastiming has been on a par with that of the best of the big leaguers.

The veteran Clyde Milan is the only Senator batting in the .300 set. Basestealing used to be Milan's strong suit, but stick work has his attention at present.

It is considered doubtful if the change in managers will help the Pirates to any great extent. In fact, there doesn't seem to be much help for the Buccaneers this season.

Business Manager Bancroft, of the Cincinnati Reds has picked third place for Matty's team. Right now the Reds look as though they would make good Benny's prediction.

Wally Schang of the Athletics hits the ball a terrific blow, but hits in hard luck. If the Mackmon's catch could hit 'em "where they ain't" he would be a wonder with the stick.

No Brooklyn or Pittsburgh player is found in the list of thirty-five National league pastimers banished by the umpires this season. On the other hand the Giants leading the league, have had eight men chased by the umpires. What's the answer.

Cobb, the leading hitter, run-getter and base-stealer, and Boland, who stands among the leading American league pitchers, are the only Detroit pastimers to distinguish themselves so far this season.

Honus Wagner has had more "special days" staged in his honor than any other player in the history of baseball. Nearly every National league club has staged a "Wagner Day" this season.

The Giants certainly are proving a hard outfit for National league teams to beat. Present indications point to the McGrawites romping home a winner with a mile of daylight between them and the runner-up.

The White Sox, picked by many to win the pennant still have a troublesome time ahead of them. There is a possibility that the dope may be upset by either the Red Sox, the Indians, Tigers or Yankees.

Losing three games in a row to Cleveland aww about the saddest blow that has befallen the Red Sox this season. The world's champions were all set to regain first place when the Indians tommyhawked 'em.
